you're an IT professional headed for success – we can help you get there faster

The HP Certified Professional Program is designed to fast-track your career. Rev up your earning power and overtake the competition with these world-class, world-wide certifications:

sales certifications

presales certifications

system integration certifications operating system certifications

first-class certification

The HP Certified Professional Program is in the top league of IT-industry certification schemes. Just what you need to validate your technical competencies and expertise to plan, deploy, and support HP products and solutions.

The program also provides certification in HP operating systems and gives you the education, tools, skills, and ongoing support you require. You'll receive exclusive communications from HP with insight into new products and technologies. And, you'll gain exclusive access to HP experts and technical support.

map out your route to success

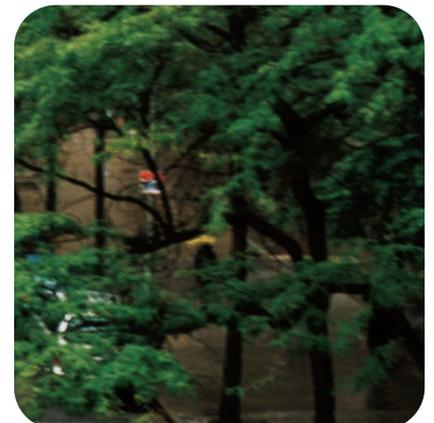

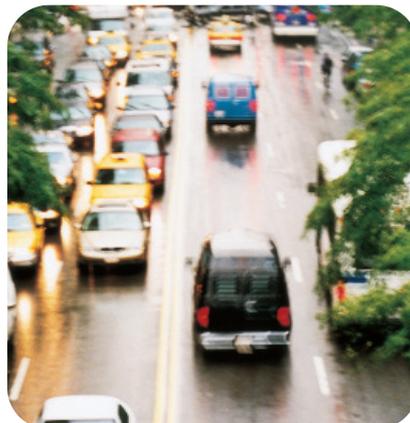

From break/fix to high-end solutions design and support, we offer every level of systems integration certification with multiple tracks that align to specific products, technologies, or solutions.

Do you specialize in a particular environment? Some tracks build on the technical accreditation programs of HP's key partners – such as Microsoft®, Novell, Oracle, and Linux vendors – enabling you to deliver enhanced performance, integration, and management on HP platforms.
